

LONG TAA BORNEO ECO STAY

Six hours from Miri. A world away from the ordinary.

A mobile-first digital journey for a living Sebuy village, not a luxury resort.

A powerful experience should not require detective work.

Long Taa has a distinctive community-led offer. But for a traveller planning from Miri, essential answers were fragmented across brochures and social channels.

- What is Long Taa? A living Sebuyak village, not a resort.
- What does the journey involve? About six hours by 4WD from Miri.
- What can I expect? Simple stay, clear costs, conditions and capacity.
- How do I book? A qualified WhatsApp enquiry, not a false instant promise.

Turn scattered information into one clear visitor journey.

We built a mobile-first five-page website that moves visitors from discovery to a more informed booking conversation.

Designed for mobile first, then enhanced for larger screens.

The website makes the next decision obvious.

Designed at phone scale, the live experience replaces vague inspiration with the facts that help a visitor decide whether Long Taa is right for them.

Mobile screenshots from the final local build. Demo fallback: the deck retains the same conversion path if connectivity is unreliable.

Clarity is the conversion strategy.

DISCOVERY

A shareable, credible digital home for a distinctive destination.

EXPECTATIONS

Honest accommodation, journey, capacity and condition information.

ENQUIRIES

A structured WhatsApp prompt that starts with useful details.

TRUST

Community-led conservation and living heritage framed with care.

No invented availability.
No invented package totals.
Every enquiry remains an availability check.

The story starts with community ownership.

Long Taa is a living Sebuy village. The digital experience is designed to set respectful expectations before people arrive, while making community-led conservation visible.

LIVING HERITAGE

Culture is presented as living identity, not tourist decoration.

CONSERVATION

Tagang fish conservation and community stewardship are given context.

RESPONSIBLE VISITS

Community rules, local guidance and conditions stay visible.

Attribution: The Borneo Post (1 Sep 2026) reported the Sebuy community received the Gamuda Inspiration Award for Environment and Wildlife. The APPGM-SDG Annual Report 2024 separately records Tagang implementation support in Dapui, Tinjar Baram.

Protect nature. Respect culture. Share our heritage.

Long Taa now has a clearer mobile-first path from curiosity to a qualified booking enquiry: authentic imagery, practical planning and a direct WhatsApp conversation with Clement Langet.
